Cait Syfrett-Khan 00:01

Hi, everyone, my name is Cait Syfrett-Khan, my pronouns are she/her. I am a white woman wearing glasses, black headphones and a pink scarf. Erm, I, just to start off, I want to thank everyone for joining us today online. Whether you are in the chats, or the live document, or you just enjoyed as part of the audience. We've had such an amazing response, a global response, from the western USA, to South Africa, and all the way to Sydney, Australia. Erm, I think I can speak for the whole team, that the interest and support we've received has been so overwhelmingly positive and encouraging. It's really wonderful to have the team, the panelists and you, the audience, share in this purpose. We do have just a few bits of bu-business before we sign off, the Jamboard will remain open until about 8pm BST, so, er, I'm not going to convert the times for all the different time zones (we've got a lot of different time zones). So, just check the time in the UK, it'll be 8pm. So, continue using it, continue discussing there if you would like, erm, the mods will be available there if you need help, until 8pm UK time, and the panels will be online for anyone to rewatch or watch. If you missed it. They'll be both on Twitch and YouTube. And transcripts will be available within the coming week. We do use an automatic transcription, like an AI program, but it's not perfect. And it still requires a lot of manual correction. So bear with us as we get that done this week. [Pause] We have a feedback form that will be available on our website. We'll - I think the links have already been shared for that in some of the chats. It's also on our website, and we can share that on our socials, erm, once we're all finished up here. We'd appreciate any and all feedback either by the form or by email and we will put all of that feedback into use to improve the accessibility and inclusivity of any future UnArchaeology events. We - we hope that you'll continue to be a part of UnArchaeology. UnArchaeology doesn't just stop here. We have many wonderful things in store. We have a really great team that likes working together, erm, I love working with this team. It's been a fantastic experience. So, keep an eye on our socials. We're on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and LinkedIn, erm, nd check our website for any updates on upcoming projects. If you want to become part of the UnArchaeology team, reach out by email or through our social media accounts and let us know, and we will bring you into the fold. You're more than welcome. Anybody's welcome. I hope everyone has a wonderful day. And thank you for coming. [Pause] And that's it for me.
